Professional Print Production Certification – Self-study Program

This certification is aimed primarily at novice to mid-level print buyers, although seasoned buyers will also greatly benefit from the education, as most print buyers have never received formal training.* PCPI has developed this highly focused certification to help you make the best, most cost-effective decisions when buying printing services. You'll learn how to match your print buying needs with the right solution provider to ensure that the finished product meets all your expectations. We'll show you how to plan and communicate effectively with your printer to avoid rework, missed deadlines, unexpected costs and disappointing results, and how to achieve high-quality results the first time around. We'll also teach you the fundamentals of print technology, but in a way that's meaningful and effective for print buyers and marketing communications professionals.

 The Professional Print Production Certification is a prerequisite for the Advanced Print Production Certification.*
